COMFORT in RIDING.

MESSRS. THOMAS & SONS wish to draw the attention of Sportsmen, and especially those who are constantly in the saddle, to the many advantages of their

LACED KNEE'D RIDING BREECHES.

Buttons constantly get broken and are driven into the shin, and in cases where the breeches are too tight or too loose, they admit of no adjustment. The use of laces obviously does away with these irritating accidents, and, in addition, gives an even elastic pressure unobtainable in any other way.

None but those who have been in the saddle for many hours at a stretch can conceive the relief this simple expedient alone affords. But if any further proof were necessary, the fact that this method of fastening at the knees has proved of inestimable value in South Africa during the late war, and has been universally copied by other tailors, should be sufficient. It should be borne in mind, however, that the majority of these imitations are unsatisfactory, and are calculated to prejudice the merits of the properly made garment, which can only be obtained of us.

Ordering.—We shall be pleased to send patterns and instructions for self-measurement, free of charge, by post, anywhere.

Colonial Customers and gentlemen residing out of town need not hesitate to leave to us the selection of the cloth. Our experience teaches us that, as a rule, it is better to do so as far as possible, merely stating the requirements and whether the breeches are for incessant hard wear or only for occasional wear. To new customers we shall be glad to submit samples of cloth and prices, with particulars of the measurements we require, which can be easily taken by anyone.

The enemy had formed an ambush at Korn Spruit, and before their presence was discovered by the main body had captured the greater portion of the baggage column and five out of the six guns of the leading battery. When the alarm was given, Q Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, was within 300 yards of the spruit. Major Phipps Hornby, who commanded it, at once wheeled about and moved off at a gallop under a very heavy fire. One gun upset when a wheel horse was shot, and had to be abandoned, together with a wagon, the horses of which were killed. The remainder of the battery reached a position close to some unfinished railway buildings and came into action 1,150 yards from the spruit, remaining in action until ordered to retire. When the order to retire was received Major Phipps Hornby ordered the guns and their limbers to be run back by hand to where the teams of uninjured horses stood behind the unfinished buildings. The few remaining gunners, assisted by a number of officers and men of a party of Mounted Infantry, and directed by Major Phipps Hornby and Captain Humphreys, the only remaining officers of the battery, succeeded in running back four of the guns under shelter. One or two of the limbers were similarly withdrawn by hand, but the work was most severe and the distance considerable. In consequence all concerned were so exhausted that they were unable to drag in the remaining limbers or the fifth gun. It now became necessary to risk the horses, and volunteers were called for from amongst the drivers, who readily responded. Several horses were killed, and men wounded, but at length only one gun and one limber were left exposed. Four separate attempts were made to rescue these, but when no more horses were available the attempt had to be given up and the gun and limber were abandoned. Meanwhile the other guns had been sent on, one at a time, and after passing within 700 or 800 yards of the enemy, in rounding the head of a donga and crossing two spruits they eventually reached a place of safety, where the battery was re-formed. After full consideration of the circumstances of the case the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief in South Africa formed the opinion that the conduct of all ranks of Q Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, was conspicuously gallant and daring, but that all were equally brave and devoted in their behaviour. He, therefore, decided to treat the case of the battery as one of collective gallantry under Rule 13 of the Victoria Cross Warrant, and directed that one officer should be selected for the decoration of the Victoria Cross by the officers, one non-commissioned officer by the non-commissioned officers, and two gunners or drivers by the gunners and drivers. A difficulty arose with regard to the officer, owing to the fact that there were only two unwounded officers—Major Phipps Hornby and Captain Humphreys—available for the work of saving the guns, and both of these had been conspicuous by their gallantry and by the fearless manner in which they exposed themselves, and each of them nominated the other for the decoration. It was ultimately decided in favour of Major Phipps Hornby as having been the senior concerned."
